SENSATION IN A SMALL TOWN.

Edwardsville, Ill., Excited Over the Capture of a Portion of a Gang of Counterfeiters.

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill., Sept. 8. - A sensation has been created in this quiet little town by the arrest of a combination of counterfeiters who have been successfully posing as a respectable family. About six weeks ago this family came here from Kimswick, Mo. They gave their name as Russell, and were three daughters, two sons and Mrs. Russell. They rented a house and settled down, apparently, to house-keeping. A couple of weeks later a man named Boehling arrived and took up his abode with the Russell family. He was missed a few days afterward, and it was supposed he had left town. Yesterday morning the people in the neighborhood were aroused by a noise of breaking glass, and discovered the man Boehling breaking through a window in the Russell house. Reaching the ground, he started to run, and was pursued and captured by two of the women. They were proceeding to drag him back to the house when the neighbors interfered. Bæbling then told his story. He said the Russells were expert counterfeiters, and that he had worked with them, but had quarreled and intended to leave. Before he could leave they made him a prisoner, and kept him confined in the house a month. Hearing that the men were away he determined to escape. Officers searched the house, and found a complete counterfeiting outfit. There were molds, a photograph camera, metals, dies and a bucket full of $5 gold pieces in process of man-ufacture. Boebling said $5 gold pieces was their specialty. Counterfeit bills were also captured, but these were obtained from other hands. The women were arrested, and the men will be if the sheriff can find them, The Troubles at Richmond, Tex. RICHMOND, Tex., Sept. 8.—The town has been comparatively quiet since yesterday afternoon, although 300 armed men are still within the corporate limits. Adjutant-general King, after a long talk with Sheriff Garver, and an inspection of the jail and means of defense, decided that he would not order the militia held in readiness to start for the scene of contemplated trouble. The sheriff is a brave man, and has a strong posse behind him to prevent any citizens from lynching the prisoners, Ewen and Donovan. The posse who left for the settlement, seven miles distant, on horseback, expecting to meet a large body of armed negroes, returned last night. and report everything quiet. The assassina-tions in this section during the last few months have so worked up the citizens that trouble may be expected at any hour. Ferguson, the negro district clerk, and the negro agitators, have left the county. Captain Frost, whom the unknown parties shot from ambush on Wednesday night, is still in a precarious condition, but his friends bave bope of his ultimate recovery.

Six French Fishing Vessels Lost. GLOUCESTER, Mass., Sept. 8.—Captain Ryan, of the scheoner A. D. Story, who arrived from Iceland last night, reports great destruction among the French fishing fleet during April, on the south coast of Iceland. As this is the codfishing ground for the French, the whole French fleet was concentrated in this locality, when a terrible storm came up, which engulfed six ves-sels and their crews. One other vessel lost her captain and there men. As near as could be ascertained the number lest was 137. Many of the vessels were so badly damaged they had to be abandoned. Three hundred men were left in destitute condition in Iceland until a steamer carried them away. They endured many hard-ships while there, the supply of food being lim-ited. The American vessels have done fairly and suffered no serious mishaps. The winter at Iceland was finer than usual, and there was no destitution among the natives. Fishing on the Labrador coast had been very poer.

She had been for years a cripple, and was taken to the church to a carriage, but was able to walk home unassisted. Her cure attracted widespread attention. WILLIAM AND HUMBERT.

The Former's Visit to the Latter Delayed by the Meddling of Newspapers. Copyright, 1888, by the New York Associated Press.] Berlin, Sept. 8.—The programme for Emperor William's proposed visit to Vienna and Rome is still somewhat indefinite. Friction has been caused between Rome and Berlin by the comments of the Italian press on the Emperor's visit. These comments have given great umbrage in official quarters here, and led to a request being sent to the Italian government to use its influence to prevent the newspapers misrepresenting the meaning of the visit, which was not planned as a means of strengthening Prime Minister Crispi's position. Prince Bismarck's telegram to the Pope, intimating that the only object of the proposed visit was to make secure the alliance between Germany and Italy, and thereby the addition of balf a million men to the German army, and that the papal question was quite outside of it, was an outcome of the same difficulty. The Pope easily recognized that the Kaiser was in the bands of King Humbert, as his host, and therefore raised no further objection to his going to the Quirinal. The Center party here, satisfied that the interview cannot be without favorable results for them, are confining their efforts to endeavoring to assist Mgr. Galamberti in persuading the Emperor to visit the Pope first. Their success in this direction, however, is very doubtful. In the meantime preparations are going on in Rome on a large scale. German artists there are full of a special project to make the Emperor's visit a memorable one. The Pope has ordered all prelates and officers of the papal household to be in readiness from Oct. 19 to carry out the reception programme with the greatest pomp and solemnity. Herr Von Schloezer will return to Rome about the end of September, to prepare an elaborate programme on the Emperor's behalf.

FREIBURG CATHOLIC DIET. Bismark Asked to Assist in Restoring the

Temporal Power of the Pope. [Copyright, 1888, by the New York Associated Press.] BERLIN, Sept. 7 .- At the closing sitting of the Catholic Diet, at Freiburg, Dr. Windthorst devoted a speech to the argument that the restoration of the temporal powers of the Pope would add to Bismark's glorious achievements toward the maintenance of the world's peace. He said that a friendly but energetic word from the German Chancellor, backed by Austria, would do much for the Pope, while the act would make the best impression on German Catholies, and be hailed by sensible statesmen in Italy as a means for combating revolutionary danger.

At the same sitting, Cardinal Lavigerie presented an elequent address on the suppression of slavery. He eulogized the work of the German explorer, and gave unpublished details and incidents connected with the death of Dr. Nachtigal. When Dr. Nachtigal received the order to proceed to Guinea, he visited Cardinal Lavigerie, at Tunis, to say good-bye to him, and he then expressed fears that the tropical climate would prove fatal to him. Cardinal Lavigerie asked to be allowed to write to Prince Bismarck or the Emperor, representing to them the circumstances of the case, but Dr. Nachtigal replied that he knew his duty and would do nothing to leave it unfulfilled. Two months later Cardinal Lavigerie heard of his death. Cardinal Lavigerie appealed to the Cathelics to use untiring efforts to assist the German government in suppression of the slave trade.

WILLIAM'S ENERGY.

The New Emperor Shows Great Diligence in Managing Reviews and Other Spectacles. Copyright, 1888, by the New York Associated Press.] BERLIN, Sept. 8 .- Emperor William is displaying an energy that might have moved the admiration of Frederick the Great. On Thursday, at an early hour, he went deer-stalking at Potsdam. After a hard day's work receiving reports, seeing visitors, etc., he boarded a special train, accompanied by his military suite, and proceeded to Dombroks, arriving there at 4:30 Friday morning. After receiving the notables of the place and taking breakfast, the Emperor drove ten miles and engaged in a review of a sham fight. Despite the early hour, an enormous crowd of spectators was present. The ladies covered the Emperor flowers. The review ended at 9 o'clock, after which the Emperor drove back to Dombroka, where he regaled twenty guests with a hasty lunch, and in a traveling saloon carriage returned to Potsdam, arriving at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, only to apply himself diligently to the arrears of state business. On Monday he will commence a review at Templehoff with a military banquet. He will then proceed to Bremerhaven, and thence to Wilhelmshaven, where the military maneuvers will be concluded, and return to Berlin on the 12th inst. The maneuvers of the Royal Guards and the Brandenberger Corps will last from the 13th to the 19th, during which the Emperor will live under canvass and inure himself to campaigning. The Duke of Cambridge and Lord Wantage having heard of this intention, sent to the Emperor a handsome tent of the Wimbledon pattern. The Emperor was much pleased with the compliment, and has shown the tent to many visitors. The separation of the chief command of the navy! from other business is mainly due to the probability that Prince Henry will become commander in-chief of the navy and will be unable to represent the admiralty, in the Reichstag. The recent attack by the North German Gazette upon the French government in connection with the shooting at the porter at the German embassy, has been followed by comments upon the excessive budget demands of the French government for Tonquin, and the diseatisfaction expressed thereat in France. The Gazette predicts that they will prove a serious danger to M. Flouquet's Cabinet, which has, moreover, to contend with the machinations of impatient placehunters, who virtuously denounce Boulanger, while they, themselves, afford living proof of the evils of the system which Boulanger attacks.

GENERAL FOREIGN NEWS.

An Incident Showing the Close Relations Between Russis and France.

London, Sept. 8 .- The official announcement from St. Petersburg to the effect that the Czar. previous to his departure for southern Russia. gave an audience to a number of Abysinnian priests, is indisputable evidence of the close relations existing between France and Russia, and is regarded in diplomatic circles as an answer to the recent sharp reply of Signor Crispi, the Italian Premier, to the French note respecting the capitulations at Massowah. Those European statesmen who contended that the net result of the correspondence between France and Italy in relation to Massowah was to establish more completely than ever the isolation of France in Europe, have had their confidence in the maintanance in th fidence in the maintenance of peace through these means rudely shaken by the action of the Czar, which actually means that Russia will en-courage Abyssinia to maintain her claims over Massowah and Sarl, another Red sea port which Italy has taken possession of.

The Moewe's guns were then opened upon the place and a detachment of marines was landed, who succeeded in dispersing the natives. This is the fourth murder of a similar character that has been committed recently in this neighborhood. All the victims were women of the lowest character. AN ENCOURAGING VIEW.

What Representative Bayne Thinks Will Be Shown by the November Balloting. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

Washington, Sept. 8 .- Colonel Bayne, Representative from Pittsburg, with whom Journal readers are acquainted, is very confident of success for Harrison and Morton. He believes that not only will the tariff question lead the Republican ticket to success, but that every issue which will be raised in the campaign will operate against the administration. He is a close friend of Chairman Quay, and goes to New York every now and then to confer with him. He has recently returned from such a conference. He is right inside of the closest counsels, and it constantly kept informed as to how things are going. In conversation to-day he expressed most perfect confidence of Republican victories where they will count most. "I hear from different parts of the country," he said, "getting the most reliable information to be had, and that's what makes me feel confident I have been to New York several times, and talked with Quay and watched how things are going. I tell you we are going to carry New York."

"Upon what do you base this calculation!" was "In the first place," Mr. Bayne replied, "Harrison will get the votes of many Republicans who voted against Blaine or did not vote at all in 1884. He will get all except a few outand-out mugwumps who broke from the Republican party for all time; besides this, Harris son will hold all the Irish votes that Blaine got. They were for Blaine out of sentiment, now they have a definite principle to support. They are opposed to opening our markets in the interest of England. Again, there is hardly w Democrat in the State who honestly likes Cleveland. He is very unpopular in his own party, and another important element, the Prohibition vote, is going to be very small this year, not only in New York, but throughout the country. In 1884 it was said that there was no difference between the two great parties; that there were no issues. This led many earnest temperance people to declars what they thought the great issue should be, and they voted for prohibition, but these people have other interests. There is an issue, a very clear issue, this year, and most of them are deeply interested in it. As Republicans they will vote with us, and a loss to the Prohibition vote will be a gain for Harrison. I felt when Cleveland wrote his tariff message," he continued, "that he had done us a great service. It drew Republicans closer together and drove from the Democratic party many protectionists in the East. This is all coming out as we expected. They calcue lated that they would make up in the West-in Iowa, Minnesota and Michigan-for losses in the East. In this they will be greatly disappointed. Our information from those quarters shows that we are holding our own. I feel perfectly sure that we will carry New York, Indiana and Cone necticut, and I believe we will carry New Jersey. We are going to carry some Southers States, too. But," he said, with emphasis, victory we'll have in New York." JUDGE THURMAN.

He Speaks at Newark, Breaking Down Ose casionally Because of Intense Heat. NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 8 .- The Democracy of Newark, N. J., held a mass-meeting to-night, in the Bellevue-avenue Rink, at which Allen G. Thurman spoke. The building is on the out skirts of the city, but despite the rain that poured down and turned the streets into puddles of mud and water, there was a constant string of people trudging toward the place from 6:30 o'clock in the evening until the building, which had a standing capacity of from 4,000 to 5,000, was packed to overflowing, and late comers were unable to obtain entrance. The Judge and his party arrived in Newark at 7:35, and were driven at once to the rink building. Immediately upon Judge Thurman's arrival at the rink platform, J. Watte Kearney, the chairman cailed the meet ing to order and introduced Mr. Thurman. The heartiest applause greeted his appearance. When he spoke it was evident that, although be had recovered, to a great extent, from the illness from which he suffered on Thursday night, his voice was not yet sufficiently strong to make himself heard by all present. To those, however, who stood within a semi-circle of fifty feet or so from the platform, his words were audible and clear, and this was what be said:

"Mr. Chairman and Fellow-citizens—Last Thursday evening I stood in the presence of the largest audience I ever saw before me in the city of New York. I had gone there in pur-suance of their invitation to deliver an address to them, and I was received with a kind, and warm, and hearty welcome, which I shall never forget as long as I live. There never was a man more anxious to repay such welcome in a becoming manner than I was, and I stood upon the stand hoping that I might be able to say something that would be worthy of their consideration. But I was suddenly stricken down with illness—an illness to which every man living is subject, and which would unman any person, although he were Hercules himself, and an illness to which Hebe, the Goddess of Health, or Samson, the symbol of manhood and strength, might have been subject. I was consequently unable to speak, and was compelled to retire from the stand and to so home and to help from the stand and to go home and to bed.

Next morning some of my friends of the Republican press were pleased to sympathize with me in a very tender and touching manner. They rated and berated the Democratic committee for rated and berated the Democratic committee for traveling a poor, decrepit old man around the United States to make speeches, when he ought to have been at home in his comfortable bad, huddled up and taken care of by his dear old wife. [Laughter and applause.] Gentlemen, I will say that if any of you have read those touching editorials, tears must have come into your eyes, for certainly if there ever was a picture of an ill-used man they depicted it. But it was reserved for one of them this morning to cap the climax by giving me a new baptism. When I was born, I was duly baptized into the Christian faith by the name of Ailen G. Thurman. Many years afterwards some enthusiastis Democratic friends of mine gave me a new baptism and styled me the 'Old Roman.' But my Republican friend of the New York Press would improve on that name, and this morning gives me baptism as 'the Egyptian Obelisk.' Well, my friends, I accept the baptism. I have seen in the Place de la Concorde, in Paris—loud cheers and interruptions. My friends, if you are going to do the speaking. I have no objections but, if you are not, give me the chance.
